

Getting to Know You ~ Maurice & Nancy Franks

Maurice had a long time desire to know what the mark of the beast was. He asked his grandfather and others questions about what it was but no one seemed to know. He knew he did not want to receive it but needed to find out what "it" was. Later Maurice joined the military and asked the same question there as he really wanted to know what it was. No one knew but he kept asking. He eventually met a guy he really did not especially like who kept asking Maurice to go to some meetings held by an Elder Knox. Maurice fought the invitation to go but since the church was only a few blocks from his house, he went. He bought a tape recorder and went and the meetings, and of all subjects, they were on the mark of the beast; it was a Seventh-day Adventist Church. He attended the meetings for three days and three nights and could not think of anything else until he fully accepted the message and became baptized.

Maurice and Nancy met after attending a church in Asheville and met at an Adventist singles group during potluck at someone's house near Pisgah. When Maurice arrived, all the girls were on one side of the house and the guys the other. He spoke up, "What is this? Segregation?" So they met, just having a nice time and Maurice finding out that Nancy had two children (twins) plus a baby. As a side note, Maurice loved children. After their meeting, their interest was there and Nancy went home thinking, "I met the nicest Christian man today but too good for me." She thought, "I'll put him on the back burner."

They dated for a year and Nancy remembers one Saturday night she was supposed to go on a blind date but Maurice was there at the house. He asked her if her boyfriend was calling but Nancy emphatically said she was not going out. So she stayed home, making popcorn for Maurice and the kids. Nancy remembers one of the seven-year old twins, Tonya, climbing on a stool and jumping onto Maurice, blurring out, "Are you going to be our new daddy?" embarrassing Nancy. Later after supper Cherie read Bible stories to the girls while putting them to bed. This gave Maurice and Nancy time to get acquainted.

Their relationship was growing and they felt that God was leading, so after a year they got married which now has been 34 years. Nancy's twins were 7, Melissa was 18 months old, and Cherie about 13. The girls took right to Maurice which was a confirmation to Nancy that he was the right one. In the beginning there was a testing time but after Maurice used the swat once or twice, things fell into place. They settled in the Pisgah area living there until all the kids went through academy. The twins got married and Melissa was a senior and the last one at home. Maurice had wanted to move to Florida for years. Nancy said, "Okay, we can move if that is what you want. He said, I don't mean to be a hardnose; we can pray about it so Nancy said "Good, that will work." They prayed about it and took off for St. Augustine, FL to look at some land that was for sale. Upon arriving, they found the land was no good so the Lord shut that door.

When they came back from Florida, they found a beautiful piece of property with a little pond and a stream on it. A neighbor asked if they were interested and they were but they only wanted about four acres. So the neighbor bought the rest. The Franks started saving money to build a house and the neighbor asked why they were waiting so long. When they said they didn't have the money, Maurice's mother stepped in. She said it was time they built and needed to spend their inheritance to build it. They hired Jeff Harms and George Suele to build the house. Mother wanted them to follow their dream. She wound up living with the family for 16 years until she went to sleep in Jesus at 98 years of age.

Maurice has done many jobs in his lifetime and Nancy's worked in doctor's offices (Dr. Berkey, Dr. Hardy, Dr. Bailey, and now Dr. Kim) and also at Park Ridge (now Advent Health).

When asked about any special interests, their #1 is giving Bible studies and they shared many stories of various people coming to Jesus receiving His transforming power. Their other combined interests have been swimming, boating, hiking, and Maurice especially has enjoyed white water rafting, under water diving looking for sunken ships, and prospecting.

If you want to know more about Jesus and His Word, just talk to the Franks. They know Him intimately.

Yard Sale

Karen Sparks & Sara Wolff

The Yard sale was a success again this March. Thank you to all those who volunteered: Pam Green, Carla Powell, Yahaira Alvarez, Pixie and Art Paradis, Desiree Magnant, Judy Kyzer, Roseanne Richards, Carole Brenner, Donna Cantrell, Douglas Edney, Rhonda Edney, Myrna Esh, Deb Grant, Jackie, Dennis, Nathan Green, Kim family, Roger Peden, Wendy Louge, and nephew Richard, Richard Sparks, Wolff children, Evangeline (one of the school mothers) and a new church attendee Paula Slater came to help. A special thank you to Rick Watson (who is attending our boot camp series) and emptied more boxes that anyone. I am sorry if I missed anyone. People came and helped and may have left while I was working in the thrift store. I really appreciated all of you. Sara and I could not do the yard sale without the volunteers. Bringing in the donations, setting up the room, emptying the boxes, staging the room all is a special process that needs many hands. Then there is the clean up. We have help from the school children and that is a blessing. They pick up the toys and the books and box them up for us. Thank you so much. Pastor Bran came to help too and Chase Warner. It is always a pleasure to work with these loving friends to accomplish our task, which is to enrich the lives of our children in our school. Bless you all so much.

Thrift Store

Karen Sparks

The Thrift Store is going through some changes now. We are getting ready to start putting out our summer stock. Again volunteers help bring down the summer clothes that Sarah Rowe has been sorting all winter for us. This happens on the 30th of March. The store will be closed for one week and reopen on April 7th with the summer selections all set up. Floors have been cleaned and the store refreshed. We are so looking forward to our the new Community building this summer. We will have lots of events and specials coming up when we move into the new building. Please remember the Hearing evaluation on April 8th with LaNoy Kyzer. The store will be open until 6pm. He will be available 3pm - 6pm. We are looking for volunteers for these evening hours. Volunteers are needed for the evening hours as well as the morning and afternoon shifts. With more donations being put out on the sales floor we really need help to sort and price. No heavy lifting. Thanks so much. We really appreciate your support. Special thank you to the volunteers who helped clear out the clothes on Tuesday to get ready for the summer stock, thank you to Marty Louge, Dee Vaughn, Rich Goodman, Carole Brenner.

We had Vespers on Sabbath evening March 30th then the church family came out to help bring down our summer stock. Thank you to the Magnant family, Wolff family, Witt family, Rowe family, Ford family, Owen family and Kim family. These folks set an all time record getting the clothes down and into the Thrift store this season. Great job and now to get them all on the racks and ready for business. We enjoyed watching the kids play and we had pizza and salad.

Our church family is the greatest. Thank you everyone for your help.

Diluting the Gospel ~ 4

Liberty Department

Diluting the Gospel with External Viewpoints; Series Part 4 – The Philosophers Apostle Paul met in Athens

After Aristotle, two major philosophical systems spring out of the ancient Greek philosophy - Epicureanism and Stoicism. Apostle Paul debates both of them while in Athens. His famous speech on the hill of Areopagus is considered a masterpiece of evangelism. It was particularly designed to reach the secular world of the time. Strangely enough, the materialistic thinking today holds vary similar concepts. Our rationality is remarkably close to the thinking of the ancient Greeks. This makes the Apostle Paul's speech a treasure for us. In this section we will study the teachings of these two philosophical groups and then analyze Paul's discourse.

Epicureanism – the “atomic materialists”. For them, the cosmos was composed by empty space filled with tiny elements, called atoms (very much like the belief of our modern scientists). For the Epicureans, the atoms, moving in the void, were “the ultimate thing”. They thought that the cosmos is infinite, eternal; and when the atoms fly chaotically and smash each other, they sometimes bond together to form more complex forms. Epicurus (341-270 BC) was a philosopher from Athens and the founder of the Epicureanism. He opened his own school, called “The Gardens”. The school allowed women to join as regular students. The Epicurus school was not just an academic place to study strictly philosophy. It was more like a community where his followers were living, eating simple meals, and spending their daily life. Epicurus was influenced primarily by Aristotle and thus with his teachings, he opposed the Platonism. As Aristotle, he believed that the knowledge comes primarily from the sensory experiences. Since he was an atomic materialist, he thought that the death is the end of both - the body and the soul. In this case, what is the purpose of life somebody may ask? According to the Epicureanism, it is to come to that happy life - free from fear and absence of pain. It is a philosophy which stresses the importance of training the one's desires.

What was their view on god or the gods? We may expect that the Epicureans were atheists because of their materialistic views. Strangely, they didn't deny the existence of the gods; they denied the gods involvement in the world. According to them, the gods live in what is called “metakosmia” – the space between the worlds and they are living a blessed life, free of any concerns of the human affairs or the operation of the cosmos. The purpose of the gods is just to provide the model by which the human beings should be inspired to live. This philosophy could be considered as a bridge toward modern age atheism. To better clarify this concept, I will give you an example. The “Riddle of Epicurus”, believed to come straight from Epicurus and concerning god, says - “God either wishes to take away evils, but is unable; or he is able, and is unwilling; or he is neither willing nor able; or he is both willing and able”.

Here are a couple of examples of how the Epicurean philosophy works:

1. Should we fear death? The absence of fear and pain is a good thing. While we are alive, the death for us does not exist and we should not fear it. When we die, we will not be alive and we will not feel the pain and the fear of it. Thus, we should not fear death at all.

2. Should we fear the gods? Well, no. Since the gods do not care for us and we are so insignificant and distant from them, they cannot even see us from their blissful place. Then, why we should fear them?

Epicureans were known among the Stoics, their main opponents, as seekers of pleasure but this was not quite correct. We will see that this was just the Stoics point of view. Epicureans were seekers of pleasures but pleasures coming from the basic need of life. For them, excessive pleasures led to more pain and dissatisfaction. In general, they were promoting a moderate and peaceful life, away from politics – to stay away from that needless stress and anxiety so common to the human cultures. Epicureanism eventually died with the arrival of the Christianity and their teachings were lost. Later, in the 15th and 16th centuries, some of the Epicurus works were discovered and in 17th century the French Catholic priest Pierre Gassendi attempted to reconcile the Epicureanism with Christianity. During the Enlightenment period in 18th century, many influential people were impacted by these teachings, some of them with quite opposite viewpoints - like Thomas Jefferson or Karl Marx for example. Do not forget that the philosophical ideas are a powerful thing. Once they run into the minds of the people, it is difficult to predict the direction they can lead.

We could hear today some Epicureans thoughts: “There is no evidence of intervention of god in human affairs”; “If there was, we can expect him to interfere during the wars, during those massive crimes against humanity”; “How about our present perishing world? If god cares for us, then why he do not get control over the pressing issues of our time – hunger, mass migration, terror. He should at least guarantee some measures of order”; “We have to presume that god is neither willing nor able to help us live together in respect and harmony”; “Common sense reality is what is left for us; let us promote moderation, consideration of the others, build friendship in the communities, and let us care for the environment”. Are all these sound familiar to you?

Good Friday

April 19, 2019

Christina Rossetti (1830-1894)

Am I a stone and not a sheep That I can stand,
O Christ, beneath thy cross, To number drop by drop
Thy blood's slow loss,
And yet not weep?

Not so those women loved Who with exceeding grief lamented thee; Not so fallen Peter weeping bitterly; Not so the thief was moved;

Not so the sun and moon Which hid their faces in a starless sky, A horror of great darkness
at broad noon — I, only I.

Yet give not o'er, But seek thy sheep, true
Shepherd of the flock; Greater than Moses, turn and look once more And smite a rock.

Pacific Press

Wanangwa Hartwell

Hi folks! You may or may not be aware that Pacific Press is now the single, official Seventh-day Adventist publishing house. Review & Herald had an ambassador program to help churches (and church members) get good deal on purchasing books and Pacific Press has taken up the torch on that.

If you order items online from Pacific press or the Adventist Book Center, use the church code 81155 for Tryon SDA Church to get discounts for you and also count toward rebates for the church.

The discounted book for April is Burst the Bubble: Finding Your Passion for Community Outreach by Sung K. Kwon. We have this book in the church library so you can look at it and decide whether you would like to buy it. It's a small book (only 160 pages) but packs a punch about community impact. Get yours through adventistbookcenter.com today!

If my church were to close its doors, would anyone in the community notice? Would anyone in the community care?

Handbells

Wanangwa Hartwell

Hello, my friends! Are you ready for your amazing, musical kids? They just got back from music festival and did a FANTASTIC job! If you were not able to be there, I hope you will make a special effort to be at their last two bell programs.

On Sabbath, April 13, the bells will be the musical elements of the church service, though they will not be the entire program. They will also play at the school's end of year program on Thursday, May 9, and we hope you will come out and see all they have learned.

Also, we are making progress toward our choirchimes! We need $2,021 to purchase three octaves of choirchimes for the school -- a chime for each bell. As of this date, we have raised $969. Please continue to give so we can have these great instruments for our kids next year!

The Sea Lion Parade

Danielle Magnant

There once was a Sea Lion whose name we'll call Jet. She loved to play tricks on the trainer yet she had not one but two boyfriends near her side and they'd often be found riding the tide. Lucky little Jet. Although she was a pet, she'd sit there and fret if she didn't get wet. So one day she came to play and the trainer did say, "Jet, you look a little wet so don't you fret because look...you're wet!"

Now down in the keys where all the seas are to please young Jet. Young Jet who's funny and yet who will get you wet if she gets upset. So now here comes Jet -- here she comes with her flipper up in the air to look like a a...shark! Watch out! It's Mark! Mark the shark would like to eat Jet all wet in the set and yet... Look, it's Jet! Jet you could've been scrambled or fried or eaten whole! We're so glad you're safe, Jet!

Angels in the Home

Ellen G. White

For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. They shall bear thee up in their hands, lest thou dash thy foot against a stone. Psalm 91:11, 12.

Angels of God are watching over us. Upon this earth there are thousands and tens of thousands of heavenly messengers commissioned by the Father to prevent Satan from obtaining any advantage over those who refuse to walk in the path of evil. And these angels who guard God's children on earth are in communication with the Father in heaven. "Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones," Christ said; "for I say unto you, That in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven" (Matthew 18:10).

Scarcely any of us realize that angels are about us; and these precious angels, who minister to those who shall be heirs of salvation, are saving from us many, many temptations and difficulties. The whole family of heaven is interested in the families here below; and how thankful we should be for this interest manifested for us day and night.

Words spoken in our homes which are impatient and unkind, angels hear; and do you want to find in the books of heaven a record of the impatient and passionate words you have uttered in your family? Impatience brings the enemy of God and man into your family and drives out the angels of God. If you are abiding in Christ, and Christ in you, you cannot speak angry words.

Fathers and mothers, I beseech you for Christ's sake, to be kind, tender, and patient in your homes. Then light and sunshine will enter your homes, and you will feel that bright beams from the Sun of Righteousness are indeed shining into your hearts.

It is the absence of the graces of God's Spirit that leaves the home in a dark, unhappy condition. Your home should be a blessed sanctuary where God can come in, and where His holy angels can minister unto you. If impatience and unkindness are manifested one to another, angels cannot be attracted to your home; but where love and peace abide, these heavenly ones love to come and bring still more of the holy influence of the home above.

In Heavenly Places, 99

Huskies

Wanangwa Hartwell & Amelia Hill

Siberian Huskies are most famous as sled dogs, but they can make good pets. You have to be firm because they will try to be the Alpha Dog over you. They are not large dogs, but they are very strong and can be stubborn!

I (Amelia) own a Husky named Lobo -- the Spanish word for "wolf" because he looks like one! When Lobo gets it into his head to go adventuring, he can be quite difficult to catch!

Lobo is also very sassy. If he doesn't want to do something, he will "talk back" and he can be very vocal. If I don't listen to him, he will go "tell Mom" what's wrong. If Mom doesn't listen either, he will go "tell Dad"!

This intelligence and spunk is what makes Huskies so good as sled dogs. They are strong, brave, and fast, and they don't give up easily. Most of all, they love their packs -- canine or human!
